NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The Senate Considers Monetary Matters.

JOHN SHERMAN HAS HIS SAY.

Time-Killers of the House—A Hitch on Technicalities—All Night Session.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD]

WASHINGTON, April 4.—In the Senate to-day Stewart offered a resolution which was agreed to, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to report what precautions have been taken to prevent the importation of lead and other ores from Mexico and Canada in violation of the revenue laws, and what legislation is necessary to prevent the smuggling of ores.

Some time ago Senator Walthall introduced a bill for the withdrawal of public lands in Mississippi from sale at ordinary private entry. The Public Lands Committee, after consideration of the matter concluded to report the bill covering all public lands, and this morning Walthall, by direction of the Committee, reported the following substitute for his bill: "Resolved, That from and after the passage of this act the public lands of the United States, now subject to private entry, shall be disposed of under and according to the provisions of the homestead law only."

Cockrell gave notice that he would oppose the passage of the bill.

The Senate then briefly discussed the bill to reimburse the creditors of the Freedmen's Savings and Trust Company, after which the bond purchase bill was taken up, the pending question being on Beck's amendment.

Teller criticised the statement of McPherson as to the the country being within sixty days on a silver basis, with gold at a premium, if the amendment should become a law. He declared there was nothing in the financial experience of the country, or of the world, that would justify a statement that if $250,000,000 of silver coin were put on the market, any difference would be made in the relative value of silver dollars and silver bullion. He denied there was any intrinsic value in money, whether gold, silver or paper. It had simply a value corresponding with its ability to absorb things. The silver question he said did not cut any particular figure in the pending bill. The amount of silver that would be coined under the Beck amendment would be insignificant, and would have little or no influence in the value of silver, but it would tell the world that the great silver producing country of the world was satisfied it did not make a mistake when it partially remonetized silver, and that step by step it proposed to go on until there was a complete recognition of silver as money metal in all respects with gold. The question was taken on the Beck amendment, and it was agreed to by 37 to 13.

Reagan offered an amendment directing the purchase and cancellations of bonds with the $10,000,000 of gold in the Treasury, for the resumption of legal tender notes.

Farwell asked if he pretended to say that legal tender notes was not a debt as shown upon their face.

Reagan said technically they were a debt, but practically, they were money; the easiest way to reduce the surplus and relieve taxation was by the adoption of his amendment.

Later Reagan withdrew the amendment on the assurance of Beck that he would have an opportunity to offer it with another bill.

Sherman moved to amend Beck's amendment by substituting silver bullion for silver coin, over the two millions monthly, but the presiding officer ruled it out of order.

Sherman said that he knew his amendment was not in order, but he wanted to show the Senate the effort to force upon the body, matter which has not been carefully examined by the committee. The Senator from Texas had spoken of there being great distress in the country; Sherman attributed this distress to the fact that the administration had not executed the law giving it full power to use the surplus in the purchase of bonds. The Democratic House had also refused to pass the Senate bill allowing National bank currency to be issued to the full amount of the bonds deposited. The effect of this policy is that, since the present administration came into power, National bank currency has been reduced by $170,000,000, and that was not all. When the banks commenced to reduce, the only way they could do it was by depositing United States notes in the treasury, and that they had done to the extent of $102,000,000. That $102,000,000 of United States notes was now tied up as the result of the fault in the action of the House. So the result of that policy of the Democratic party was to make a double contraction of currency. The distress could easily be relieved by continuing the efficient national banking system and by removing the present restrictions on the issue of national banking currency.

Sherman spoke of the overthrow of the national banks as something that would be "a feather in the cap" of the Democratic party, and yet the national bank currency was the best that ever existed. He stood there to defend the national banking system, which was insidiously sought to be overthrown by the various propositions submitted with the bill. There had been an effort to undermine it ever since the Democratic party came into power. He would not say that of the Executive head of the Administration, but by representatives who came mainly from the Southern States.

After opposing the silver bullion proposition in the pending measure, Sherman said he never had been against silver. If the policy which he had always advocated had been adopted and acted upon, silver would never have depreciated in market value as it has done. The maintenance of silver on a par with gold was a wise act of public policy, and if it could not be brought up to that standard, an approach to it could be made and then by a convention of the European nations, a new ratio might possibly be established and gold and silver be placed side by side as in the past; but while gold and silver were differently rated in the market, no single power in the world could bring them together, and if the United States attempted it, it would reach finally a single silver basis, thus detaching this country from the commercial relations of the world.

He had no objection whatever to the issue of silver certificates on bullion in the treasury at its market value.

The United States should have done as the Latin nations did, not coin any more silver than was necessary for ordinary transactions. On the balances of silver bullion, certificates could have been issued from the beginning, and could now. The proposition of the Senator from Texas would dissipate the gold now held for the redemption of legal tender notes, and would draw it abroad and into banks, to be hoarded, and then when some black Friday came there would be a gap between coin and legal tender notes, and gold and silver bullion would be at a premium.

He was willing to do all that can be done to maintain silver, provided the Senate stands by him in maintaining the two metals at par with each other, until, by common consent of the nations of the world, there may be a ratio fixed approaching the present one.

Allison said he had voted for Beck's amendment respecting silver, and saw nothing in it that had a tendency in the slightest degree to alarm the people of the country as respects silver coinage. The silver legislation of 1878 had been, he thought, fully and thoroughly justified. It would not have been possible to have maintained resumption without it. He wanted to say to all business men who might be alarmed lest we coined a million or two of silver this year more than we ought to, that there would be an outflow of gold. He would not say what would happen if we should so adjust our internal affairs as respects the revenue laws as to change the balance of trade against us, because when that time comes when we become a debtor nation instead of a creditor nation, whether or not gold would go then, he was not prepared to say. While he was as ready as any other Senator to find a just cause of alarm as respects the situation of our currency, he did not believe the added coin which would result from Beck's amendment would amount to the one thousandth part of a cent per annum as respects the great measure's value which now adjusts all our affairs.

McPherson moved to add to the bill, "provided that nothing in this act shall authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to coin more than four million dollars' worth per month."

Stewart moved to lay the amendment on the table, and with this action the Senate adjourned.

THE HOUSE.

A Day of Filibustering—A Long Night Session.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—After the reading of the journal an effort was made by the friends of the special order District Tax bill to make an arrangement by which a final vote upon the measure would be insured to-day at 8 o'clock; but Breckenridge, of Arkansas, objected to the proposition.

E. B. Taylor, of Ohio, thereupon moved to limit the general debt to one hour. The opponents of the bill then resorted to filibustering tactics.

The entire day was consumed in voting upon dilatory motions. At 6 o'clock a vote occurred on a motion for a recess until to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

Breckenridge made a motion that McMillan be excused from voting upon Taylor's motion.

Reed of Maine and Burrows of Michigan, made a point of order that the motion to excuse was not in order, Reed suggesting if it were, more motions would be submitted to excuse every member.

The Speaker said while this might be very inconvenient, he thought the motion to excuse was in order.

Grosvenor, of Ohio, remarked suggestively that it might be a very convenient motion for a minority to avail itself of. There were 145 members of the minority. At six hours a day they could use up fifty days upon every vote, and he gave notice now, if God spared his life and this motion were admitted, if he could get the minority to stand with him, he would do it on a question which would affect somebody very materially. The House was asked to put a technical construction on the rule that would paralyze the legislation of the country and put into the hands of the minority, power to usurp all legislative functions.

The speaker said he had expressed no opinion as to what the rule ought to be; he had simply stated what it was.

Breckenridge, of Arkansas, withdrew his motion to excuse McMillan.

Grosvenor, of Ohio, inquired if the ruling of the Chair would be allowed to stand. The Speaker replied that he supposed all proceedings would stand as a part of the record of the House, but the Chair would give this question a thorough examination.

The motion for a recess was set aside by a motion to adjourn till Friday. On this no quorum voted, and the call of the House was ordered.

At 10 P. M. the situation remains unchanged, except that there has been a gradual falling off in the number of members responding to their names upon roll call. At this hour, prospects for an all night session are strengthening.

LATER—The House at 2:15 A. M. took a recess until 11:45.

A VETO MESSAGE.

The President Objects to the McKay Claims.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The President has vetoed the bill for the relief of Nat McKay and the heirs of Donald McKay.

In his message vetoing the bill the President says: "It hardly seems fair to the Government to permit these claims to be presented after a lapse of twenty-eight years, since settlement in full was made and receipt given, after the opportunity which had been offered for establishing further claims, if they existed, and when as a consequence of the contractor's neglect, the Government would labor under great disadvantages in its defense. I am of the opinion, in view of the history of the claims and the suspicion naturally excited as to their merit, that no injustice will be done if they are laid at rest, instead of being given new life and vigor in the Court of Claims.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The House Committee on Education had under consideration the Frank H. Glover contest from St. Louis and, although no formal action was taken, it is apparent that the committee will report in favor of the sitting member.

The House Committee on Territories has authorized a favorable report on the Gifford bill to empower city corporations within the Territories to bond improvements and real estate for an amount not exceeding 4 per cent. of the assessed value of said city, in addition to their present bonded debt; such money to be used for necessary public improvements.

The House Committee on Military Affairs has ordered reported a bill to reduce to the width of five miles the military reservation of Fort Lowell, near Tucson, A. T., if inquiry should disclose the fact that the surplus is of greater value than ordinary public land. Marsh will report an amendment authorizing its appraisal and sale at public auction; otherwise it will be open to disposal under the homestead laws.

It is considered certain that the Army Retiring Board will recommend the retirement of General Terry.

Before the Senatorial Postoffice Investigating Committee, at Philadelphia, several witnesses testified as to the wholesale removals of old employes, the defective service since the change, and the participation of the heads of departments and subordinates in ward politics. Ex-Postmaster Huidekoper said he was removed without cause, and after Postmaster General Vilas had told him that under his administration Philadelphia was the best managed postoffice in the United States.

CALIFORNIA PROHIBITIONISTS

The State Convention—Rather a Stormy Opening.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Delegates to the seventh annual State Convention of the Prohibition party assembled in Metropolitan Hall this morning. A number of names were placed in nomination for temporary chairman, among them being General Bidwell, of Chico, and W. D. Gould, of Los Angeles. Considerable confusion arose before a selection was made, and the discussion at times was of a rather stormy nature. General Bidwell was finally elected, and the Convention adjourned till afternoon.

At the afternoon session addresses were made by ex-Governor St. John, of Kansas, Dr. Goodwin, of Los Angeles, and several others, and a poem was read by Mrs. Mason, of San Diego.

Vermont Republicans.

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 4.—The Republican State convention to choose delegates to the Chicago convention, selected the following delegates at large: Ex-Governor Redfield Proctor, General J. G. McCullough, Col. J. J. Estey, Hon. Frank Plumley. General McCullough in a speech, said the issues were temperance, civil service reform, surplus revenues and free ballot; but the greatest issue was that of the tariff. Among the candidates mentioned, Blaine's name met with the greatest favor; Depew and Sheridan next.

The platform reaffirms an alliance with the principles of liberty and union which have been cardinal with the party; declares it fundamental that elections must be pure and honest; that the Constitution in this respect is nullified by the Democratic House and that popular government is thus seriously imperiled; that the only remedy is to restore to power the party that saved the Union; it believes in the protection of American markets for American citizens, and favors such taxation as will yield only the revenue that the general welfare requires, and such tariff as will obviate a large surplus in the treasury and protect producers and artisans from serious competition with foreign capital. The resolutions strongly condemn President Cleveland's disregard of Civil Service Reform, and insist upon the rectification of the flagrant abuse of the system; favor the public supervision of great coporations and trusts. Gratitude to the soldiers and sailors who saved the country is warmly expressed and a gorgeous provision for their comfort is favored. Immigration of the mass of people of nationalities who do not assimilate with our own should be suppressed. Government should provide means, without invading the rights of the States for the education of the illiterate. Women will be wholly welcome to equal participation in the government when they give evidence of desire for enfranchisement in sufficient numbers. The saloon is an unmixed social evil and the friends of temperance should work together politically for the most restrictive measures governing it.

The Election in "Little Rhody."

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 4.—The weather to-day was fair and the election for State officers progressed quietly. A tremendous vote was polled in this city. Enos Lapham, Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, was badly scratched.

Later—The State election went Republican by about 1,500 on the genral ticket, and the Republicans had a sweeping victory on the legislature. The proposed amendment to the Constitution abolishing real estate qualification for foreign-born voters will probably not get the necessary two-thirds vote. The vote for Governor was: Tuft, (Republican) 20,768; Davis, (Domocrat) 17,444; Gould, (Prohibition) 1,345; majority for Tuft, 1,989. The exact status of the General Assembly cannot be given to-night, but Republicans have a majority on joint ballot.

A Bad Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 4. — The strikers at the Edgar Thompson Steel Works to-day rejected Andrew Carnegie's co-operative proposition. Mr. Carnegie immediately ordered a complete shut down of the great plant until January 1, 1889. This announcement was received with dismay by the workingmen. It will throw out of employment over five thousand men.

LET THEM FIGHT.

The Rock Island Driving the "Q" to the Wall.

CORPORATIONS LOCK HORNS.

The Boycott Against Burlington Freight Raised and New Tactics Begun.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

CHICAGO, April 4.—The managers of the Rock Island road boldly maintained in court this morning that notwithstanding the denials of the Burlington officials, the Rock Island charges were true that the Burlington were trying by rate wars and strikes to force the formation of a great Western railway trust. The Rock Island entered a motion that while the matter would be referred to a master before whom testimony should be taken to establish the truth of the charges, voluntary affidavits would not be obtainable from some of the witnesses. The Rock Island asserts in its papers accompanying the motion for reference of the case to a master to put witnesses upon the rack of examination and cross-examination, that leave was asked from the court to get affidavits from some proposed witnesses who have

SUDDENLY LEFT

The immediate jurisdiction of the court. Among these are Charles E. Perkins, President of the C. B. & Q. road, P. M. Arthur, Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and J. W. Midgley, Chairman of the Southwestern Railway Association. The Rock Island makes rejoinder in conclusion that yesterday's affidavit of Henry B. Stone, General Manager of the Burlington, displays a temper and recklessness in assertion and denial which renders it eminently proper that he be subjected to cross-examination under circumstances which will compel him to frame his own answers instead of having them prepared for him by counsel, and in which he will have

AN OPPORTUNITY TO EXPLAIN

How he can deny, without qualification even, the information, belief or averment that the Burlington communicated to one or more managers of railways its purpose to prosecute a rate war until the officers of the western railways should consent to abdicate the powers placed in their hands by their stockholders, to an unlawful trust, when such communications were made by other officers of the Burlington Company, and not in the presence of the said Henry B. Stone. And the Rock Island says further it can, by the cross-examination of the said Henry B. Stone, and by testimony of other witnesses, whom it proposes to examine, sustain each and every allegation the Rock Island has made, and establish the falsehood of every contrary allegation made in the affidavit of the said Henry B. Stone. The reiteration of the Rock Island charges, and the motion for reference to a Master, caused a hot

INTERCHANGE OF DENUNCIATION

Between the attorneys of the two corporations. Wirt Dexter, for the Burlington, warmly declared that the Rock Island officials were attempting a boycott against the Burlington, and that a boycott was a criminal, indictable offense in Illinois. Judge Gresham interposed at this point by adjourning until the afternoon.

NO INJUNCTION GRANTED.

When the court re-convened the arguments were resumed. At the conclusion, Judge Gresham said, even if the trust allegations made by the Rock Island were true, it did not relieve that road from its duty as a common carrier. Again, he did not think the Rock Island had refused to do its duty. The Burlington did not need protection from this, its strongest competitor, and as there was no danger of injury accruing to the "Q" road, no injunction would be issued just now. Future developments, he said, might alter this order.

NEW TACTICS.

The Boycott Raised and the "Q" Overwhelmed With Freight.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The final result of the meetings of employes of the various roads in the city, which began yesterday afternoon and lasted until a late hour last night, was announced this morning in the declaration that the boycott of "Q" cars has been permanently raised and that henceforth the contest will be confined strictly to the "Q" system. All strikes except the "Q" were to stop forthwith, and all those which were imminent were to be averted. The business of Chicago is to be restored and maintained by the strikers with strict decorum. Other roads were absolved from the requirement of strict neutrality, and violence is to be discountenanced, according to the well known policy of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The arrangements agreed upon, it is stated, are directly due to the exertions of Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Engineers, Grand Master Sargent of the Firemen, Grand Master Monoghan of the Switchmen's Association, Mayor Roche and Mark Crawford; also representative switchmen.

THE FINAL DECISION

Was reached by the mass meeting held with closed doors last evening and which was addressed by General Manager Jefferys, of the Illinois Central. Fifteen hundred railway employés were present at the meeting, representing elements which had previously been at times antagonistic. Grand Master Sargent, of the Firemen's Brotherhood, was the first speaker. He stated that he came not only as a representative of the firemen, but also to voice the views of Chief Arthur of the engineers. The strike on the Burlington was a just cause and they had used every honorable means to treat with the company. With such a record behind them, it would not be proper for the strikers to stand by and see helpless people suffer from the base practices of the company.

Sargent urged, therefore, that the boycott be raised, and the "Q" deprived of its most dangerous weapon.

General Manager Jeffreys, of the Illinois Central, told the men of the

DISASTERS THAT WOULD FOLLOW

A general tie-up, and appealed to them to shield their fellows from such infliction. He said his company would not concur in a general black-list of the Burlington strikers by the railroads, and he would use his influence with the managers of railroads toward the same result.

Grand Master Monoghan, of the Switchmen's Association, emphasized the points of the two preceding speakers so well that the boycott was declared raised, and the meeting decided to redouble the fight against the Burlington. Everybody connected with the system who could be called out would be, and one embarrassment after another was to be enforced. Committees were sent out at once to visit officials of the different roads, and later reported that all the lines had accepted. By

OVERWHELMING THE BURLINGTON

With business the engineers argue that the fact will soon be demonstrated that it is by no means prepared to handle it with the new hands now in its employ. The plea of the Burlington that the places of the strikers have been filled and consequently that it has nothing to arbitrate, the engineers think, will be demolished, and the company compelled to arbitrate the question at once.

THE MEN RESUME WORK.

When the appointed time came this morning for the cessation of the strike on the St. Paul, all hands, firemen, engineers and switchmen, presented themselves for duty, and the usual run of things, as far as the Milwaukee and St. Paul companies are concerned, was resumed at once.

At the Fort Wayne yards there was a hitch, and the strike on that road continued. The engineers and firemen were ready to carry out the understanding, but the switchmen were obdurate. At 9 o'clock, however, everything was satisfactorily arranged, and the Burlington boycott was apparently everywhere at an end.

MILLER'S ORDER CANCELLED.

MILWAUKEE, April 4. — General Manager Miller, of the St. Paul road, said this morning that he would issue an order immediately cancelling his order of last Monday. To-day's order will go into effect Monday next. The order rescinded was that reducing the force of the road one-third. It threw out of employment 6000 persons. By the new orders, all parties will be reorganized Monday next with full forces.

THE DEMONSTRATION AWAITED.

CHICAGO, April 4.—It is broadly stated that in lifting the boycott, the strikers calculated that all roads that had suspended relations with the "Q," would at once proceed to unload on that company all the cars that had accumulated, and that the effect would be to swamp the "Q" with freight. Having achieved this, the Burlington would be required under the law to furnish proper facilities for handling freight, and this might grow into a lever to move the men back to their old positions with the "Q." Up to to-night the judgment of the men seems to have been good, but it will take time to demonstrate whether or not the Burlington is capable to handle all the freight that is poured in.

POWDERLY AN AUXILIARY.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The Times will say to-morrow in reference to the calling off of the boycott by the strikers that it is the result of negotiations between the Brotherhood of Engineers and the Knights of Labor, that a committee from the Brotherhood went to Scranton a week ago to see Powderly and urge him to call out the Knights of Labor employed on the "Q" road, and if the strike should extend to other roads call out the Knights there as well, and aid the striking engineers. In return the engineers would make certain concessions. The Times says Powderly refused to do anything to precipitate the general strike, which he regards disastrous for all concerned, but he finally agreed if the boycott was declared off and all except "Q" strikers went to work, he would call out the knights among "Q" employes. The truth of this report remains to be seen. No signs of it have yet been developed.

FRANCE.

Boulanger's Secret—He Represents a Principle.

LONDON, April 4.—A correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette had an interview with Gen. Boulanger in Paris last evening. In regard to his candidacy for the Chamber of Deputies in the Department of Nord, and his reasons for not going there to conduct his canvass, he said that he was not like an ordinary candidate; he did not appeal to the electors on petty departmental questions, but as a representative of a great principle The principal he represented, he said, was a revision of the Constitution. The Chamber of Deputies had been striken with impotence and no longer represented the people; in a dissolution of the Chamber and a revision of the Constitution was the only remedy for the evil. Being asked to explain the basis of his plan of revision, he said, "That is my secret, which I shall keep to myself."

A DEAD-LOCK.

The Committee of the Chamber of Deputies to which were referred the proposals of the Panama Canal Company to issue a lottery loan is equally divided for and against the loan. The committee therefore will report to the Chamber that they are unable to arrive at a decision.

THE CHAMBER ADJOURNED.

M. Milline was to-day elected President of the Chamber of Deputies. He accepted the task in the interest of the country. He requested the support of all, including those who had voted for Clemenceau, in order that he might surmount the universal difficulties attending his new duty. After some discussion the Chamber adjourned until May 19th.

The Moos Defiant.

TANGIERS, April 4.—W. Reed Lewis, the American Consul, has received a reply from the Moorish Government, declining to accede to the demands of the United States with reference to the persons under Consular protection, imprisoned at Rabal. Fears are entertained here that the American Government will adopt vigorous measures against Morocco.

LONDON, April 4.—The United States steamer Enterprise has sailed from Tangiers for Nice to receive orders from the Admiral of the American squadron with reference to the Rabal affair.

OREGON DEMOCRATS.

Digest of the State Platform—Gearin for Congress.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 4.—The Democratic State Convention reassembled at 9:45 this morning. The Committee on Resolutions reported, and the platform was adopted unanimously.

The first resolution endorses President Cleveland, and the second endorses the present State Administration.

The third is as follows: "That we most earnestly and unqualifiedly endorse the policy of tariff revision and reduction of the surplus revenue to the needs of the Government economically administered, as set forth in the President's last annual message to Congress. We believe such revision is dictated by sound policy, and that unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation and oppression, and public revenue should as far as possible be derived from taxes levied upon luxuries rather than the necessities of life."

The fourth section demands the forfeiture of unearned land grants and approves the President's message on this subject.

The fifth section holds that Congress should let the pension roll be the roll of honor, without visiting on the people so great a financial burden.

The other resolutions denounce the policy of the English government and express sympathy for the Gladstone and Parnell effort; sympathize with the laboring classes; favor the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, demand enlarged power to State railway commissions and demand of the general government liberal appropriations for river and harbor improvements. John M. Gearin was nominated for Congress on the first ballot.

John F. Miller, H. Klippa, J. K. Kelly, Napoleon Davis, T. J. Black and W. S. Hellman were chosen as delegates to the National Convention. For Presidential electors the following persons were named: E. R. Skipworth, W. R. Bilyeau and W. H. Effinger. Asa Bush was chosen as Chairman of the State Central Committee.

HORRIBLE HOLOCAUST.

A Terrible Calamity at a Mexican Bull Fight.

GAIETY CHANGED TO MOURNING

Women and Children Trampled Underfoot and Burned by the Flames.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the HERALD.]

CINCINNATI, April 4. — A special from the city of Mexico says: The Two Republics publishes the following advices from Celaya: Sunday afternoon about forty-five minutes past 4 o'clock the bull ring of Celaya was crowded with spectators of the exciting national sport. A company of bull fighters from Leon was still playing with the first bull, when a fire suddenly broke out on the sunny side of the plaza. A panic seized the vast assemblage and

A FRIGHTFUL CATASTROPHE

Was the result. The plaza was constructed of wooden masts, reeds, etc., and it was due to this fact that the majority escaped without injury, being able to force an opening to permit an exit at the different points, but many women and children jumped from the top, a distance of two hundred to three hundred feet, and over one hundred persons were seriously wounded. Eighteen lives were lost. The side of the plaza being lined with matting as dry as tinder and there being a slight wind blowing, the ampitheatre was in a blaze in a few seconds. Nine dead bodies, in some cases so charred as to be unrecognizable, have been taken from the ruins. Nine persons were so badly burned they died in a few hours. Sixty-eight persons were very badly burned, and at least ten of them will die this week. Fifty persons in escaping were knocked down and trampled upon by

And are very seriously, but not fatally injured. The bulls maddened by the roaring of the flames, broke loose from their stalls and rushed wildly through the surging mass of humanity, tossing aloft and knocking over all who stood in their way. Among the eighteen dead were two women, who were first gored to death by the bulls and their bodies afterwards burned. Scenes in the neighborhood of the bull ring were sickening beyond description. Women and children divested of their clothing and

Several persons lost their lives from the severe mental shock to which they were subjected. The fire was incendiary. In the Celaya jail were a number of prisoners, army deserters, etc., who had obtained permission from the authorities to attend the bull fight. They were accompanied by a strong guard of soldiers to prevent escape, but one of the deserters surreptitiously struck a match and lighted one of the dry portals. In an instant the "Sol" side of

FATAL SCANDAL.

A Wife's Misdeeds Lead to a Double Murder.

STEVENS POINT, Wis., April 4.—The scandal, which two years ago resulted in the death of Banker Morse, at the hands of Willis W. Hazeltine, culminated yesterday in the killing of Hazeltine by John D. Curran, whose name was also associated with the scandal. Hazeltine was walking along the street, when he was fired upon by Curran, and expired almost instantly. Nine buckshot wounds were found in his head and the upper part of his body.

Hazeltine's wife was a beautiful woman and a leader in society here, and three years ago her name became associated with that of A. E. Morse, a young married man and cashier of the First National Bank. It was also said that Curran and Mrs. Hazeltine were too friendly. Hazeltine satisfied himself of the truth of the rumors and then shot Morse dead. He was afterward acquitted, and is reported to have said Curran and he could not live in the same place. Curran left the city and had not been seen here until a few days ago.

A dispatch from Stevens Point says: The coroner's jury to-day find that W. A. Hazeltine, who was shot down in the street yesterday, was killed by John D. Curran. Henry Curran also has been arrested on the charge of complicity.

BREWSTER DEAD.

Ex-Attorney-General Brewster Passes Quietly Away.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—Ex-Attorney-General Brewster died this evening. General Brewster had been suffering during the entire winter with a disease of the kidneys, but his condition did not become serious until a month ago, since which time he has been confined to the house. Early this morning he sunk into a heavy slumber and passed quietly away.

FLAG AT HALF-MAST.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The flag on the Department of Justice was placed at half-mast as soon as the death of Attorney General Brewster was announced. Attorney General Garland issued an order that the building be draped in mourning, and that it be closed on the day of the funeral.

HATTIE WOOLSTEEN.

Testimony Taken Yesterday at the Trial.

HARLAN'S WATCH AND RING.

He and Hattie Went Riding to Compton the Day Before the Murder.

The Woolsteen case occupied the attention of Judge Cheney's court and a good many people yesterday, as it is likely to do for a number of days to come. The first witness examined was Anson Stephens, who testified: I reside near Compton, near the Barbey place. I know Hattie Woolsteen, she having been at my house sometime in July last. She was stopping at Mrs. Barbey's at the time. She was at my house three different times. The last time Mrs. Barbey was with her. I recognize Miss Woolsteen as the lady in court. Miss Hattie was at my place on the 6th of October, or at least my children said it was her. She came to my place in company with a man of medium height, light complexion and sandy moustache. He wore a broad-brimmed, light colored hat. They drove up, hitched and went to the orchard. The man afterwards came out where I was and asked me some questions relative to my place. I was not near enough to Miss Hattie to recognize her. The man appeared to desire to purchase the place. I did not know of the burning of the barn until the morning of the 7th. I went to the place and discovered that a charred body was among the ashes and remains. The body was lying breast downward. The left arm was extended and burned off. The right arm was burned off between the elbow and wrist. The right side of the head was also burned, but part of the face was not destroyed, including the upper lip and moustache. I took a part of a letter from the vest pocket. (Letter identified,) and Mr. Malcome took up pieces of clothing which were under the remains. There was a cuff button and a broken dice block also found. (All of the articles exhibited to the witness and identified.) I never saw the man who came to my place with Miss Hattie before that time or afterward.

Cross-examination: Miss Hattie and her companion went to the orchard with my son. They had some talk with him about buying the farm. When they came back they came to where I was, while Miss Woolsteen untied the horses and got into the buggy. The man gave me a card with his name and address, and we agreed that my son should meet him in Los Angeles the next day, when he said he would tell us whether he would take the place. He wore dark clothes and a sombrero hat, something like a cowboy's hat. There was a hole in the right side of the head just above and in front of the ear. The top of the head was burned away. There was about two inches of the skull intact above the hole, but it all crumbled away when the body was moved.

Re-direct examination: I sent my son to Los Angeles to meet the party who called with Miss Woolsteen, but after calling at his office on Main street he did not find him. The name he gave us was C. N. Harlan. He told us he had a real estate office, but we found it to be a dentist's.

JOHN STEPHENS,

Being called and sworn, testified: I reside at Garvanzo. I lived at Santa Ana in October last, and am familiar with the Barbey farm. I was on the premises on the 7th of October, 1887. I found the barn had been burned and in the ruins I discovered a body burned to a crisp. I was at my father's place on the 6th of October. I saw a gentleman who afterwards told me his name was Harlan and a lady who I now recognize was Miss Woolsteen, driving about near our place. I understood they wanted to buy a place, so saddled my horse and rode about two miles when I overtook them. I told them I had a place to sell, or one belonging to my father. They said they would come back. I rode to the house and put up my horse, and when I came out of the barn they were driving up to the house. We then went down through the orchard. Harlan introduced Miss Woolsteen to me as Miss Hattie, a friend. They conferred with one another and myself about the place. Harlan told me he wished to purchase the place for Miss Hattie. I told them there was a mortgage on the place and they could let it stand. Miss Hattie said money was no object. She would pay all the money down if she should take it, as she would not have a mortgage hanging over her. As we went through the orchard Harlan plucked an apple, and taking a bite out of it, gave it to Hattie, saying, "That is sweet, Hattie." She took it, and after tasting threw it away, saying, "It's sour." He gave her grapes also. When we got back to the house Miss Woolsteen went to the buggy and Harlan and I to the barn, where we had some conversation with my father. He asked me there if I would give him the usual commission I told him I would. He then wrote his name and address on a card and asked me to meet him at his office the next day. (Card identified.)

Cross-examination: I know the barn was burned between the 6th and 7th. It was in ashes on the morning of the 7th. On the 6th I saw Harlan and Miss Woosteen drive into the Barbey place. Harlan told me his friend Hattie wished to buy the place for her folks who were coming from the East. He said she wanted an improved place that her people might move right in. They appeared well pleased with the place and said the price was reasonable. Miss Hattie appeared to prefer ten acres, but Harlan told me he thought he could get her to take the whole thirty-five acres. He said the commission on ten acres would not amount to much.

Afternoon Session.

I. S. Jenkins was the first witness called in the afternoon. He testified: I reside near Compton. I was returning home from lodge on the night of the 6th of October, when I discovered Mrs. Barbey's barn to be on fire. It was about 12:30 A. M. on the morning of the 7th when I discovered the fire. My brother and I went over next morning I saw the body found in the ashes of the barn. I saw Miss Woolsteen driving with a gentleman of light complexion, sandy moustache and sombrero hat, on the 5th of October. I did not know Miss Woolsteen, but have since met her at the preliminary examination and at this trial.

JOSEPH SANTUNG

Testified: I reside at Compton. In October last I was sinking an artesian well for Mr. Stephens. I remember when the Barbey's barn was burned. It was on the night of the 6th. On the 6th Miss Woolsteen, in company with a gentlemen, drove up where I was at work and made inquiries about land. The gentleman stated that he was looking for a 10-acre tract of land owned by a Mrs. Rector. I told him I knew of no such property. He drove a bay span of mares and was dressed in a dark suit and wore a broad-brimmed hat.

WM. NEWLAN

Testified: I reside one mile from Compton; I have seen Miss Woolteen; I do not know when, but think it was in July; I was making hay at the time.

I saw her again on the 6th of October; I met her in the road in company with a gentleman. They were in a buggy. They drove a bay span of horses. It was about 2 P. M. when I met them. The gentleman hailed me and inquired whether I could tell where the Rector place was. Upon my answering in the negative, he said it appeared strange I did not know the place. He then turned in the buggy, and shaking his whip toward Mrs. Barbey's barn, said "I guess that red barn is the place." I told him it was not, without it had changed hands lately. The lady then remarked that she thought that was the place. They then drove off to the south. I recognized the lady as the one who had visited with Mrs. Barbey.

LESTER P. SWENEY

Testified: I reside in Los Angeles, and was somewhat acquainted with Dr. Harlan when he resided in the city. I saw him on Wednesday before he disappeared. (Witness was handed a watch and a sleeve button and identified them as being similar to those worn by Harlan.)

HARRY CORBIN

Testified: I reside on Olive street, in Los Angeles. I was acquainted with Dr. Harlan. The last time I saw him he wore a horse-shoe scarf pin and a gold watch. He wore a large white hat. I usually met Harlan at the Brunswick billiard hall.

M. T. HOLLINSWORTH

Testified: I am a jeweler and have my business place at 30 S. Spring street. I knew Dr. Harlan. He was at my place of business a short time before his disappearance and showed me a Tiffany gold watch, which he wished to exchange for an Elgin watch. (Watch identified). I think it was on Wednesday before his disappearance that he called at my store. He wore a broad-brimmed, light colored hat at that time.

CHARLES T. PLATT

Testified: I am a jeweler, doing business on Third street. I knew Dr. Harlan before his disappearance. I know he wore a gold watch. It was a Pattick, Phillip & Co. Geneva watch, but made for the Tiffany Watch Co. (Watch in evidence identified).

A. S. JOSEPH

Testified: I am a jeweler and pawnbroker. I knew Dr. Harlan. I last saw him in October. He was in my place of business. He wore a single stone diamond ring, a Tiffany watch, and a horse shoe diamond studded locket. I sold him the locket. (Watch identified as one similar to that worn by Harlan.)

S. G. DEGARMO

Testified: I knew Dr. Harlan in his lifetime. I saw him last on Saturday or Sunday before his disappearance. He wore a gold watch and a diamond ring. I have also seen him wearing a horse shoe scarf pin. I have not seen him since the burning of Mrs. Barbey's barn.

MR. JOSEPH

Being recalled produced his books and stated that on the 22d of September, Dr. Harlan pledged the diamond ring with him and redeemed it on the 4th day of October which was the last day he ever saw him and the time he had examined the Tiffany watch.

S. G. MC CONNELL

Testified: I am a merchant tailor, my place of business is at 113 N. Main street. I was acquainted with Dr. Harlan. I made two suits of clothes for him, (the remains of the clothing discovered in the barn were identified by witness as a part of the suit made by witness) I recognize both the cloth and the linings. I also recognize the padding or the material used to give the breast of the coat firmness. It is yellow. The boys in the shop called it the small pox flag. Red or white is the usual color of such material. I saw the Doctor about a week before I noticed an account of his dissappearance in the papers.

Continued until this morning.

Hattie Attempts Suicide.

It transpired yesterday that on Sunday last Hattie Woolsteen attempted to commit suicide by choking herself to death. It appears that she occupied a cell adjoining Isabella Andross, who is charged with the murder of her lover at San Pedro, and about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the Andross woman heard a gurgling and struggling sound in Hattie's cell. Thinking that something was wrong, Isabella went into Hattie's cell and saw her lying on the bed with a shawl thrown over her head. Jailer Russell was called, and found Hattie black in the face, with her handkerchief tied tightly about her throat. When revived, she requested to be allowed to die, but Sheriff Kays, who was informed, decided to place a watch over her. It was thought that she would be safer with her sister Minnie than with anyone else, and the two sisters now occupy the cell. The matter was kept quiet at the request of the attorneys, for fear that the knowledge of the fact might affect the trial.

EDUCATIONAL.

Regular Meeting of the Board Tuesday Night.

The Board of Education met in regular session at the Council chambers Tuesday night with President Crawford in the chair; present, Mrs. Averill, Messrs. Embody, Johnson and Kelley. Applications of H. A. Smith and Miss Carrie Brasuer for positions as teachers in the schools were received and filed. The matter of organizing a separate school for colored children being introduced by Mr. Kelley, Mrs. Averill stated that she had been requested to ascertain how many colored children there were in the schools. She found that there were seventy-two, but as they lived in different parts of the city the plan appeared very impracticable. After making inquiry of the different teachers it was found the negro children were well behaved, studious and, in every way, desirable pupils. The matter was by common consent tabled.

The monthly report of Superintendent Freisner was read, approved and filed. Frank Brown, of the Amelia street school, was suspended until after the next regular vacation, for profanity. A committee of one was appointed to wait upon the Board of Health and request that the nuisances caused by pools of stagnant water at the Griffith and Amelia street schools, also in the alley near the Eighth street school, be abated. Dr. Plummer, of the Spring street school, offered a petition, resolution and recommendation from the Principals of the different schools requesting that the pupils of the city schools be required to enter the school grounds at 8:30 instead of 8 A. M. The reason assigned was that many pupils are kept in the streets by a strict enforcement of the old rule. Upon motion of Mr. Kelley the former action of the Board was rescinded, and the gates of school grounds hereafter will be opened at 8:30 A. M. After the transaction of other minor business the Board adjourned.

Proposed Reception.

In recognition of the hard work and success of the representatives of Los Angeles in securing the Democratic State Convention for this city it is proposed by the leading Democrats to give them a reception upon their return to the city. Shortly afterward it is proposed to hold a conference of citizens without respect to party to agree upon a plan for entertaining the visitors many of whom will see the Southern part of the State for the first time.

Removal.

On or about the first of April, THE HERALD will move into the new building, now in course of completion, on the north side of Second street, near Fort.

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1888.

Illustrated Annual Herald.

The matter is now being prepared for this popular publication. The edition will be larger than ever before, and its columns will be filled with carefully prepared matter reflecting the progress and industry of Southern California. The illustrations will be more numerous than ever before, and in point of excellence the engraver's art will maintain the high reputation this publication has deservedly gained. Parties desirous of availing themselves of the advantages this special edition offers for advertising and write-ups, will do well to hand in their orders at as early a day as possible.

Free Lumber.

Some one has very aptly written that the Trust is a thing which can only be defended by a criminal lawyer in active practice; and, in following this logical conclusion the Democratic press of California has, almost in unity, condemned the sway of the Lumber Trust of the Pacific coast. Occasionally a Republican paper, less handicapped by subserviency than its fellows of that ilk, comes to the fore and denounces the Lumber Trust.

The evil-doing, or rather the evil effects of the Pacific Lumber Trust are keenly felt in South California. It is hardly questioned or disputed that the combination of the lumber firms of the north is the real cause of the prevailing high price of lumber in the south. It costs no more to-day to put lumber on the home market than it did two years ago; yet the price of lumber has increased, in the two years, nearly 50 per cent. This advance in the price of lumber has been attained through the Trust by a system not far, if any, removed from legalized robbery.

The Trust is, therefore, a menace to the prosperity of South California, and a potent factor in retarding its growth. With lumber at the present prices building is prevented, towns checked in their development, immigrants held from settling, and lands left uncultivated. Wage-earners have to pay high rents, because houses cannot be built except at an extravagant figure. The raisin and fruit industries have to pay heavy tribute to the Trust in the advanced cost of boxes. The number of raisin boxes used is about 1,000,000, orange boxes 750,000, fresh fruit boxes over 3,000,000, and boxes for canned fruits and vegetables over 1,000,000; total, 5,750,000. These are important figures when it is taken into consideration that the boxes will cost this year about one-third more than they did in 1885–6. Thus the hardship worked against the leading industries of South California is readily seen.

A Republican contemporary has the grace to say:

Not content with advancing the prices for lumber to unreasonably high figures, the lumber combination is working to reduce the pay of loggers, against which the latter naturally rebel, and if the reduction is persisted in, it may lead to the breaking up of the Trust, or at any rate, to a lower range of values for lumber. The Trust is one of those things that want all flesh but no bones, perfectly willing to distribute the latter with lavish hands to all persons not in the ring, and at the same time crying out for all the protection possible to be secured.

Why not free lumber, as a remedy for the extortions of the Trust? It would break up the power of the unholy combination to a certainty. The removal of the eighteen per cent. ad valorem duty, which now increases the price of lumber about $4 a thousand feet, would let in the competition of British Columbia, and that would furnish South California and the rest of the Pacific Coast with cheap lumber. The present tariff does not protect over twenty firms of mill owners, and they, through combination, oppress a vast population of nearly two millions of people and cripple the industries of the vast territory which they inhabit.

The New Court House.

Los Angeles county will soon have a court house whose graceful proportions and substantial construction will make the edifice the just pride of this section. A visit to the site on the corner of Temple and New High streets will convince the most casual observer of the correctness of this statement. The contractor has dug the foundation to a depth of six to twelve feet below the ground level. This excavation is filled with a compact bed of "concrete," that is, small stones, gravel and cement, to support the foundation. This is to be of solid granite masonry, which will rise to a couple of feet above the level of the ground. All the sills, steps and other like parts of the building are to be of granite. Some three car-loads of this stone are received here daily. If any one imagines we have no building stone here, he should inspect the blocks being trimmed for the new court house. Many of them are twelve feet long, and two feet in each of their other dimensions. These are, some grey granite, and others brown. Both are exceedingly compact, of fine grain and beautifully marked.

To make the foundations more substantial, near the bottom the trench is made to widen, so that for the lowest two feet the "concrete" flares out both ways from the center, thus preventing any spreading of the material under pressure of the heavy walls to go on top.

The body of "concrete" where the great central tower is to stand is six feet deep, and extends over an area twenty-six by thirty-six feet. This tower rises to a great height, and will be very massive.

Our Board of Supervisors are doing all they can to push along the construction of the building, but prefer not to press matters to such a pitch that anything will have to be slighted. The foundations are mostly laid. Much of the stone is prepared, and a stage will soon be reached where the work of a week or two will make a showing.

A FEATURE of the HERALD'S daily news worthy of careful attention is the complete financial and market reports from all the central marts of the world. Under the head "Finance and Trade" will be found full and accurate reports of the local stock and produce markets, the stock exchange review from New York, the money market at that point, also stock, bonds and mining quotations from the American metropolis. The San Francisco markets of all sorts are reported in all their details and also Chicago markets. Any special changes taking place in Europe are promptly reported in our dispatches. The local retail market prices are given each Friday morning. Eastern people visiting here may learn each morning from the HERALD of all fluctuations taking place in market quotations. These, with the local real estate markets so fully reported, leave nothing to be desired in this respect. The world's business is here given in epitome, so that our readers are at once informed of the latest changes taking place in values.

THE report of the lamentable railroad accident chronicled in these columns yesterday morning was a bit of enterprise on the part of the HERALD not easily discounted. The accident occurred at nearly 7 o'clock P. M. The scene of the disaster is over twenty miles from this office. No train, excepting specials—one sent to bring in the wounded, and the other the wrecking train to repair the track—left the depot after the accident took place. It was 2 o'clock in the morning before the train with the wounded returned, yet in spite of all these difficulties, the sad story with all its minutest details appeared in the HERALD yesterday. It was all done by the enterprise and efforts of our local staff, and the reporters should not be robbed of their credit by an error which credited the news to the telegraphic branch of our service. The HERALD alone had the facts of the accident yesterday.

THE Republican minority in the Ways and Means Committee, allow themselves to be carried away into a gross misrepresentation of the Mills tariff bill. These gentlemen state—in all innocence and candor, no doubt—that the articles on which the tariff is reduced are of peculiarly Northern production, excepting sugar and rice, and they complain that these peculiarly Southern products suffer but slight reduction. In the first place, these ante-reform statesmen develop, in this respect, a marked lack of consistency. They clamor against the removal of duty from wool because such action, it is claimed, will harm our sheep growers. But more than this, they state what is untrue. Iron and its manufactures are affected by the Mills bill, and they are Southern as well as Northern productions. Salt is made in the South, and it goes on the free list, if the Mills bill passes. Other commodities might be enumerated.

THE bantling news-bureau which is trying to compete with the splendid service furnished by the Associated Press again illustrates at once its lack of enterprise and judgment by sending to one of our contemporaries yesterday morning a detailed account of the arrest of Marshal Meade by the Mexican authorities, while in pursuit of the Stein Pass train-robbers. The lack of enterprise was in sending news to the Los Angeles papers every word of which had appeared in the Eastern press a week ago. The lack of judgment, was in sending details, reiterating, but adding nothing to, what had been published in all the papers of the coast much more than a week ago. No papers outside the Associated Press service can possibly get news so promptly and so full as the dispatches sent by that able bureau. The HERALD receives this splendid service in full.

THE conductor who gave the order for the work train to try to make San Fernando in the face of the knowledge that the delayed freight train might be met on the track, is hardly fit to hold so responsible a position on a railroad. He ought to get "sick," "tired," or otherwise incapacitated from holding such a position.

NAST.

His Lecture Draws an Immense Audience.

The Pavilion, ample as its seating capacity is, was filled last night to its utmost. There could not have been less than three thousand people in the immense building.

Nast's fame, as the first caricaturist of the age, was alone sufficient to create a universal interest in him, and many, aside from the lecture, wanted to see the man whose cartoons have become a power in the land. When he came on the stage, he was warmly received. His pictures, especially his own sketches of himself, give the impression that he is a much larger and more rotund man than he really is. But no one could mistake his features. The farouche mustache alone, almost horrent at the horns, would "give him away" to any audience.

Without any remark he turned to his easel, on which was mounted a revolving web of paper, and sketched a building. This he did in a jiffy, and then, turning to his audience, he said: "You see, I can draw a house." The joke was appreciated. He then proceeded to dilate upon the fact that man was the only animal that was gifted with the power of laughing. The nearest approach to our species—and our remote progenitor, according to Darwin—the monkey could make us laugh with his antics, but was himself the most serious of animals. He then drew a very comical picture of a laughing man, and offset it with a most sad-faced monkey. He said that his great ambition when he started out in life was to become a historical painter. It was a fact that the most successful comedians always aimed at first to become heavy tragedians. So it was with him. The way he happened to fall into the caricaturing line was this: When a boy, he used to frequent the Charles street theatre in New York, and the delineations of the famous Wm. E. Burton made a marked impression upon him. He was so struck with his personation of "Toodles" that he found himself sketching him in all his comical attitudes in that very ludicrous character. Mr. Nast then sketched "Toodles" startled at his twisted necktie. By a few dashes of his pencil he changed the expression of his subject to one of calm composure.

The lecturer told of his first application to the editor of a pictorial publication for work. He was a boy of fourteen, and he told the editor that he wanted to draw pictures for his paper. The editor looked at him with amazement, and sent him out to draw a steamboat. He did so; the design was accepted, and he commenced his career on a salary of five dollars a week. He then drew a very comical sketch of the astonished editor and the cheeky small boy. And so he proceeded, dashing off familiar public faces in a few strokes of his facile pencil. One of them — Ben Butler—was done so quickly and so strikingly as to bring down the house. He then related, briefly, the story of the Tweed ring, and gave his familiar phiz in exaggeration, coupling it with a money sack, which he changed by two strokes into another caricature of the great chief of the New York ring.

He told the audience how he first came to make his mark, during the war of the Rebellion, in Harper's Weekly. The contrabands suggested a subject suited to his line. But the war had made a powerful impression on him, and he treated it successfully in the heroic vein. He then gave the audience two specimens of his power in historical painting in oil. The first was a comical sketch of DeSoto discovering the Mississippi; the second no one could tell what he was driving at until when he got through, he said it was a Turner, whose picture nobody had ever discovered until Ruskin came along. To prove that this was a Turner, he turned it over until he got it right side up, when it proved to be a first rate picture of Niagara Falls. He closed with a comical sketch of a night-capped old codger going to bed.

The lecture—especially the pictorial part of it—was greatly relished by the audience, and he developed considerable humor of a fresh and genuine character in his running comments.

AMUSEMENTS.

M'lle Rhea as "Frou Frou" at the Grand.

In spite of many counter attractions, an audience fair in size assembled last night to see M'lle Rhéa in one of her earliest triumphs, Frou Frou. How much the ladies must have enjoyed the lovely dresses worn by the star! Such creations could come from nowhere this side of Paris. As the gay, spoiled, but true and tender heroine. M'lle Rhéa is quite at her best. Miss Fitz Allen appeared in the hardly less exacting role of "Louise," and she quite divided the honors with the star. In the famous quarrel scene both artistes were at their best.

To-night Fairy Fingers will be the attraction. When M'lle Rhéa will present everybody present with a souvenir thimble, she to be the recipient of a suitable memento from her many friends in the city. For Saturday night Pygmalion and Galatea is to be the attraction, and to-morrow is the benefit of the popular Treasurer of the house, Mr. Frank Conant.

Mr. McKiernan's Benefit.

The new parochial hall of St. Paul's Church, Olive street, was comfortably filled last night on the occasion of a benefit concert tendered to Mr. A. J. F. McKiernan, the founder of the St. Paul's Philharmonic Society, by his many friends and pupils. The concert was on a more pretentious scale than is usually the case on such occasions, and a large and well-selected programme was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The chorus deserves mention for its rendition of Wagner's "Faithful and True." The next concert of the St. Paul's Philharmonic Society will take place the last week in April, when the "Rose Maiden" will be performed for the first time in Los Angeles.

The Church Concert.

Owing to the many counter attractions in other parts of the city, it was not to be expected that the concert halls would be crowded; but there was a fair attendance at the First Congregational Church, corner of Hill and Third streets, last night, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all who listened to the choice literary and musical programme. Miss Mamie Short's recitations carried off the honors, her "Legend of the Organ Builder" being especially well rendered. The proceeds were appropriated for the Ladies' Aid Society.

BOLD BURGLARS.

Colonel Hewitt's Residence on Hill Street Ransacked.

The residence of Colonel Hewitt at 305 Hill street was entered yesterday evening by burglars, who ransacked the house and carried off considerable booty. The Colonel and his wife were at the Pavilion witnessing Mr. Nast's entertainment, and the house was left absolutely unprotected. Taking advantage of this the thief or thieves entered by the back door and made a clean sweep of the principal apartments, emptying drawers, wardrobes, and all available places on to the floor in their search for plunder. The following is a list of the articles stolen: One pair lady's diamond cuff buttons, one pair lady's cameo bracelets and locket and bar pin to match, one lady's gold bracelet, a gold thimble, three gentleman's cameo studs, a gold scarf-pin, a silver chain, two silver bracelets, one gold neck-chain, a diamond ring, pair of silver earrings, two plain gold breast-pins and a pair of child's gold bracelets.

FOR LIFE.

Calzada—The Wife Murderer Sentenced.

Francisco Calzada, convicted of the murder of his wife, was arraigned for sentence yesterday at 10 A. M. before Judge Cheney.

The Judge in passing sentence stated that he did not deem it necessary to reprimand the prisoner. He would have ample time to reflect and repent of his crime. Whether the Infinite would pardon he did not pretend to say. As for the crime, it appeared to be a most cowardly one. It might have been committed in a spirit of desperation, or Calzada might have considered he was authorized by a higher law to slay his wife to save his children from a life of shame, but at all events it was cowardly.

If a man was determined in such a case to seek vengeance, it should be taken on the despoiler and not on a helpless woman. The sentence of the Court was that Calzada be imprisoned at San Quentin for the rest of his life.

AGAIN ON FIRE.

The Los Angeles Furniture Company's Store.

About 11 o'clock last night a fire was discovered by Officer McKee to be in progress in the interior of the Los Angeles Furniture Company's building on Main street. The building had just been placed in repair, having been burned a few months since for the third time, but the new stock was not yet in place. Those employed in the store had closed it for the night at 6 o'clock, and how the fire could have started no one knew. It started in the oilcloth room, in the left wing in the center of the building, but was luckily discovered before it had made much headway. Chief of Police Cuddy was on hand and aided the Fire Department in discovering the seat of the fire, which was quickly extinguished with the loss of only a couple hundred of dollars.

Awaiting Identification.

Chief Cuddy is anxious to have the diamonds, jewelry, several silk handkerchiefs, a roll of cloth and a roll of silk at present in his hands, identified. The gold hunting case watch recovered with the diamonds at a house on Buena Vista street has been identified by C. H. Ruddock, of Pasadena, California, and goes to prove the Chief's theory, that the coachman of Col. Banbury, of Pasadena, who skipped out the day Thomas, Sheridan and Reddy were arrested for burglary, was one of the principal movers of the gang of thieves that have, for the past year or so, been working the suburbs of Los Angeles.

A WOEFUL WRECK.

Details of the San Fernando Disaster.

CONDITION OF THE INJURED

Scenes on the Spot — Terrible Death of Engineer Westerfield and Fireman Brooks.

The facts given in these columns on Wednesday morning regarding the railroad disaster near San Fernando were all corroborated yesterday, and proved to be the only authentic account presented to the public. The HERALD reporter remained at the depot all night awaiting an opportunity to proceed to the wreck, and this finally occurred at 7:10 A. M. when No. 20, which had been held all night for orders, was directed to proceed to San Fernando. Coroner Meredith kept watch with the newspaper man in his nocturnal vigil, and it was with great relief that they found themselves steaming away to the scene of the disaster. San Fernando was reached about 8:15, and there was a large crowd assembled at the depot when the train pulled in. The conductor was directed to side-track and await further orders from the front, so the HERALD man proceeded to obtain all the particulars he could from the congregation at the depot. It appears that the first information that reached San Fernando of the disaster was through the medium of a traveler who drove in and stated that an accident had occurred near the tunnel. Shortly afterwards a man was observed limping along the track, and he proved to be one of the victims who had escaped with slight injuries. An engine and caboose were at once manned and went as quickly as possible to the scene, where a horrible sight was awaiting them. A heap of débris scattered all over the track, men sitting about bloody and disheveled, and on a pile of cushions lay all that was mortal of Engineer Westerfield, who had left the city in the morning full of life and hope, and now was naught but a bleeding corpse. Groans of suffering men resounded piteously, and laboring to rescue their imprisoned comrades a number of trainmen were hard at work upon the pile of ruins that lay upon the track. A low groan of horror went up as those engaged about engine No. 198 brought to light the mangled and almost unrecognizable remains of Harry Brooks, one of the most popular firemen on the road, and, indeed, it was a pitiable sight to see so strong a life snapped off in the very bloom of youth. The foreman of the work-train was the next discovered, and was quite helpless as he was conveyed to a temporary shelter made by the side of the track. Engineer Feazele was almost buried beneath a mass of timbers, but when extricated did not appear to be severely injured, and so the work went on and all the aid that could be extended to the sufferers was given by willing hands. About 8 o'clock a warning whistle from the south was heard, and at express speed steamed up an engine and tourists' car, from which alighted Doctors Kirkpatrick and Frost, Mr. J. Thompson and a number of aides, who had been recruited in the Los Angeles yards. The physicians went to work with commendable energy binding up wounds, administering stimulants to those whose injuries were serious, and in every way possible relieving the needs of the afflicted men, who hailed their visitors with delight. Brooks' remains were then placed by the side of three of the most badly injured survivors, and with this sorry load the relief train, accompanied by the physicians named, returned to Los Angeles. At San Fernando, Brooks' body was deposited in the freight house, and the train proceeded with the injured men to Los Angeles, arriving here about 1:40 A. M. yesterday, when the suffe-rers were at once sent to the Sisters' Hospital.

Such was the gist of the information in possession of the HERALD man after half an hour's inquiries and as there appeared to be no opportunity to proceed, by means of rail, to the wreck, the scribe hired a muleteer to convey him by road to the scene. Crack! went the whip and along a level road sped the light wagon at a rapid pace, the beasts of burden being urged on by whip and cry of the Mexican driver, who was anxious to earn a few pesos. It was about four miles by road to where the accident occurred and at the journey's end was indeed

A SCENE OF DESTRUCTION.

Engine No. 198, the huge ten-wheeled locomotive that headed freight train No. 24, was a complete wreck and bent in twain like a half-opened jack-knife. The pilot and the tank were both embedded in the ground and the center of the cab was thrown up in mid-air. The vehicle lay on top of an embankment and by its side lay the "hog" engine No. 251, which, however, escaped with comparatively small damage. Its pilot was broken and the end of the tank smashed, but the main part of the engine was almost unhurt and it will not entail a very great expenditure to put it in running order again. Four empty box cars in a shapeless mass lay piled up and a piece of the track was torn from its moorings. About half a mile up the line stood the engine of the work train capped by all that was left of the old passenger coach which was used to convey the workmen to and from the scene of their labors. A number of men were hard at work putting in a subsidiary track, and the wrecking train which had arrived in the early part of the night stood conveniently by to aid the laborers in their herculean task.

The HERALD man subsequently engaged in conversation with section foreman Tim McDonald, who was on the wrecked train, and obtained from him the following statement: "We were engaged in clearing out the tunnel, and having 2,000 feet to do had a big job on our hands. We worked until 6 o'clock, when the hour to quit arrived, but did not know what to do about going in. Train No. 24, northbound, was overdue two or three hours, so when the train for Santa Barbara came along, Upson, the conductor of the work-train, asked where 24 was. He was told 'We passed her at San Fernando,' so, thinking that it might be possible to reach that point ere she pulled out, he gave orders to Engineer Westerfield to start out for home at a lively rate. There were eight laborers on board in addition to the train-hands, who were composed of Engineer Westerfield, Fireman W. H. Dorman, Conductor Upson and Brakemen Lewis (two brothers). We were backing down and I stood on the end of the car looking out, as I knew that No. 24 was somewhere near us on the road. We had got about one and three-quarter miles south of the tunnel to a point where there is a 10 degree curve, when suddenly I saw a puff of smoke. Engineer Westerfield saw it too, for he immediately reversed his lever, but this precaution was futile. Round the curve came No. 24, her two engines puffing and groaning with the effort of climbing the grade, and before you could say 'Jack Robinson' they dashed upon us. I jumped just in time, alighting on my head severely cutting it, and also bruising my body in several places. When I looked around I beheld a sight that was simply indescribable. The passenger coach in which we travelled on the work train was thrown right on to the engine, and as I watched it, the locomotive gave a quiver and then started at full speed in the direction from whence we had just proceeded—due of course to the fact of the lever having been reversed. The bottom was completely out of the car, and I could see the workmen falling through on to the track as the train sped on for the north. I may as well tell you what happened on the engine at and after the time of the collision. Engineer Westerfield was leaning out of the cab when the crash came, and the car which was forced over the engine

STRUCK HIM ON THE HEAD,

Causing instantaneous death. Fireman Dorman was thrown against the side of the cab and had his thigh broken in two places. When he recovered from the temporary shock, he found himself speeding northward, and remembering that passenger train No. 19 was somewhere on the track, he knew that the engine must be stopped or another frightful accident would occur. Dragging his mangled limb after him he crawled over the boiler head, then over the body of his dead comrade, and reaching the throttle stopped the train. Now as regards No. 24. It is said that Engineer Macklin, who was on No. 198, the head engine, was on the gangway when the collision occurred, and he was thrown to the ground and escaped with a good shaking. His fireman, poor fellow, met with a worse fate—he was thrown between the engine and tank and his head literally mashed into a jelly. Engineer Feazele on the "hog" jumped, but fell in a bad spot, as the box cars following in the wake of the tank, turned over and piled up on him. His fireman, J. L. Butts, saw the danger in time enough to get away with a whole skin, though he was, of course, badly shaken. Brakeman Lewis of the work train ran up the track and flagged down No. 19, or else in all probability that would have been in on us and made the calamity one of the most tragic on the history of the road. No. 19 then came down to the tunnel, side-tracked, and ran back with one car to Newhall, conveying Fireman Dorman and a Mexican named Madacades Luna, who was severely injured internally."

J. L. Butts, the fireman on Feazele's engine, corroborated the facts stated by McDonald and added: "We were behind time but were not running fast as it is scarcely a part of the road to do so. I doubt if we were going more than ten or twelve miles an hour. When Macklin on the head engine, saw the work train he gave a warning whistle, so Feazele and I both hastened to get out of the way. I managed to get clear but Feazele fell right at the spot where the cars began to turn over and as soon as I could I started to extricate him. It was a hard task, but after about an hour and forty minutes with the aid of some others I managed to get him out. He was badly bruised but had no bones broken. I then went to work helping the others, and we had a hard night of it I can assure you."

Several others who were in the accident were next interviewed, but the statements made did not differ from those already narrated, and it is evident that these are the true facts of the case.

The HERALD man then viewed the remains of the dead engineer and fireman and a more ghastly sight can scarcely be conceived.

WESTERFIELD'S INJURIES

Were all to his head and he appeared to have been struck a terrific blow on the forehead as the crown of his skull was pressed right back. His left hand was terribly scalded, the skin hanging from it in rags, and as this is the hand which grasps the lever, it shows that he died a brave man, at the post of duty.

Brooks was almost unrecognizable even to his most intimate friends. His skull was cleft in twain, and his face, neck and chest had been scalded in a frightful manner. He was all begrimed with coal dust, having fallen with his head among the fuel.

Along the track passed over by Westerfield's engine after it was reversed, were scattered seats, windows, timbers and car trucks, and it is miraculous how any of the men on the car escaped with their lives. The fact is that the pilot of 198 lifted it right up in the air, throwing the inmates in all directions, those left clinging to the seats, falling through after the car began to move. There was great excitement at Newhall when the news of the wreck first reached that city, as the passenger train had passed through for the South a short time previously, and it was feared that it was that which had been smashed up. The Santa Barbara southbound train was held over at Newhall, and there was much discontent among the passengers regarding their treatment there, as they were unable to obtain any food at the hotel, and had to remain supperless.

Judging by all the reports received, the work train was going at the rate of about 25 miles an hour when the catastrophe occurred, and was evidently trying to make San Fernando in quick time. The wrecking train did some good work throughout the night, and by 9:30 had a subsidiary track laid around the wreck, it being deemed impossible to clear the main line under four or five days. All of the men on the spot worked diligently, and Mr. Thompson was untiring in his efforts from the time of his arrival on the scene. When it was at last made available for trains to pass, there were three regular passengers from the north waiting, No. 19, No. 29 (the Santa Barbara train) and No. 17. They came down in procession to San Fernando, being preceeded by the wrecker, and after they had got away, and No. 20, which was 14 hours late, had proceeded northward, the workmen returned to the scene. Westerfield's body was brought down in the baggage car of the Santa Barbara train, and at San Fernando Brooks' remains were also placed on board, and with its ghastly load the train proceeded on its way to Los Angeles. Great credit is due to Baggagemaster Maltby, of the Santa Barbara train, for his excellent management regarding the dead and the HERALD is indebted to him for the courteous treatment of its representative.

ON ARRIVAL IN TOWN

Westerfield's remains were taken to the funeral establishment of Messrs. Orr & Sutch, and Brooks' body was conveyed to Messrs. Garrett & Neitzke.

The following is a complete list of the killed and injured:

Killed:—J. A. Westerfield and H. Brooks.

Injured:—Engineer J. Feazele, bruised leg and hurt back; Engineer Macklin, badly bruised; Fireman Dorman, left thigh fractured in two places and cut on head; J. Fitzgerald, foreman of work train, fractured collar-bone; Gregorio, right leg crushed above the knee; Madascades Luna, injured internally.

All of those who were in the wreck were more or less wounded, but the injuries to the others not personally enumerated above are only of a temporary nature. Fitzgerald, Luna and Gregorio are at the Sisters' Hospital in this city, and when seen last night, were resting well: Feazele was conveyed to his residence, 842 Buena Vista street, this city; Dorman is at the Southern Hotel, Newhall; Macklin is at the San Fernando Hotel, and the others are at Newhall, Fernando and this city.

J. A. Westerfield was 26 years of age and was born in the East. He married on New Year's day, 1886, and his wife and infant son reside at 12 Adobe street, this city. His mother and sister also dwell here. He had been in the employ of the Southern Pacific for the last six years, and was a trusted and valued man.

Harry Brooks was about 26 years of age and a native of Ohio. He was single and resided in this city.

A flag was floated at half-mast over the Southern Pacific shops yesterday in memory of the dead trainmen. General sympathy was expressed throughout the yards for Mrs. Westerfield, and it is evident that both of the departed were very popular among their fellow-workman.

Enquiry at the depot offices last night elicited the fact that trains are all running on time again, and that no further delay will be caused at the scene of the wreck.

A PASSENGERS' PURSE.

Mr. Muir was handed $71 yesterday afternoon, accompanied by the following letter:

"J. A. Muir, Esq.:

"In the Pullman car 'Santa Clara,' on No. 19, the sum of $71 was collected last evening for the benefit of the brave fireman of engine No. 197, W. H. Dorman, the brakeman who ran and flagged the train and also the Mexican, Luna, all of whom were in the collision which took place on the evening of April 3rd, and are now lying at the Southern Hotel, Newhall. We desire you to distribute it as follows: $40 to the fireman; $20 to the brakeman, and $11 to the Mexican."

Coroner Meredith decided last night to postpone the inquest until to-day, owing to the great difficulty in procuring the necessary witnesses.

The Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors met yesterday and on motion of Supervisor Venable the District Attorney was instructed to commence action against Mr. McNeil for endangering public health for neglecting to properly bury the carcasses of animals as per contract with the city authorities. Mr. Rogers appeared before the board in relation to the Arroyo Secco road, and agreed to pay the expenses of a surveyor if it was found that the road was public property. The District Attorney was requested to confer with Hon. S. M. White and see if the board had power to appoint another Justice of the Peace in the city. The petition asking that Mrs. Watson be appointed as special on the payroll of public force was read and referred to the Public Commissioners of Los Angeles with the request that the petition be granted. Adjourned.

POLICE BRUTALITY.

High-Handed Outrage By a Dastardly Club-Swinger.

"Get down to the office, G—d—— you, or I will smash your d—— head in." These words, with a volley of other invectives, rang out in the quiet air of early yestermorn and startled a HERALD reporter who was writing at his desk in the office. Hurrying to the street the reporter was in time to hear the resounding thud of a policeman's club upon a human head, and to see the blow given by a police officer, who was hustling about three citizens whom he had placed under arrest. The place of the assault was in front of No. 50 North Spring street, and as the reporter appeared on the scene one of the arrested men appealed to the citizens, who had been attracted to the spot by the violent threats and noisy demonstrations of the officer, to bear witness to the outrage being committed and to take note that none of his party were in anywise or way resisting the officer or disturbing the peace. The officer, frenzied with rage, closed the appeal with a blow of his club upon the head of the man, which could be heard a block away. Cries of "shame" went up from the lips of the lookers-on, and one citizen said: "This is an outrage which should be thoroughly investigated by the Police Commissioners and Chief Cuddy." Another said: "Confiscation of stars is now in order." A third remarked: "We will have to form a citizens' club to protect us from the policeman's club."

One of the arrested men was Mr. Stoll, the well-known soda water manufacturer of Sainsevain street. This gentleman has been a resident of Los Angeles for many years and is one of the most peaceful and law-abiding citizens in the city. It appears that he and his two companions had attended a German society meeting and in going to their homes, in a jovial mood began, with the natural proclivity of the music-loving German, the singing of a song. Met by the policeman, they were told to "shut up," and expostulating with the officer as to their rights as citizens, were abused as told above.

The end of the disgraceful exhibit of police tyranny was that the blue-coated bully called for assistance and two other officers responded. These entered into the brutality of the affair and the three maltreated citizens were roughly handled and "run in." At the Police Headquarters the arrested men were immediately released upon bail to the amount of ten dollars each. It is likely that Mr. Stoll and his associates will not tamely submit to a clubbing without cause. Mr. Stoll remarked to the reporter that it seemed strange that the Salvation Army may make the welkin ring with their hymning voices while a private citizen has his skull cracked for indulging in a jovial song.

POLICE BUSINESS.

Three Men Detailed to Raid the Gambling Houses.

The Board of Police Commissioners met yesterday afternoon in the Mayor's office, with Hon. W. H. Workman in the chair. Jason Colburn was sworn in as a special officer, he being at present electrician for the City Fire Alarm Company. The Chief having reported favorably of the following applicants, licenses were therefore granted to John Henberger, Otto Renentreater, John Kelto, Paul Novaro and Frank Esperance. A petition was received from Frank Gage, asking to be appointed a special officer. Granted. An application for a position on the force was received from Daniel F. Finucane and placed on file. The Chief's bill for secret services was allowed for $60.30 for the month of March. Bill for incidental expenses, $50.85, also approved. On motion that the Chief of Police be authorized and instructed to detail three men from the regular force to raid and enforce the law against all kinds of gambling in the city, was carried unanimously. John Callahan preferred a charge against Mounted Officer Del Valle stating that he had been locked up by that officer simply through spite. Investigation was set for April 18th at 3:30 P. M. The ordinance for the protection of thoroughfares, and prohibiting certain advertising methods, was referred back to the City Council. The Board recommended that the salaries of the sergeants, detectives and Chief's clerk be raised to $100 per month. Adjourned.

Fare on the Arcadia excursion is only 50 cents for the round trip. Lunch 25 cents at Hotel Oakwood.

A Happy Union.

One of the most fashionable weddings that has occurred in colored circles for some time past was celebrated last evening at 40 San Pedro street. The contracting parties were the genial George Warner and Miss Epsher. The impressive ceremonies were performed by Elder Jourdon Allen, after which the happy couple received the congratulations of their many friends. A fine supper was served.

MISCELLANEOUS.

T. T. T.

Having purchased from Los Angeles county thirty acres of land, only a short distance from the business center of the city, at a remarkable low figure, I have subdivided the same into lots, and will offer them for sale on and after the 1st day of April. When this chance and visit your time, as there will be bargains that will surprise you all. These are the cheapest and best lots ever placed upon the Los Angeles market. The Rapid Transit road, Krutz street car line and City Park are on either side of this tract. The largest locomotive and car works west of Chicago will be built only a few blocks away. Rapid transit, graded streets, beautiful views, plenty of pure spring water and delightful surroundings are a few of the numerous benefits derived by purchasers of these lots. They are within the reach of all, as the prices will be extremely low. For maps and prices call on R. A. Ling.

LIFE ELIXIR AT LAST!

ANTIDOTE

—FOR THE—

DREAD DISEASE

CONSUMPTION

Consumption has long been looked upon by the medical fraternity as incurable and the unfortunate victim who once falls a prey to its insidious fangs has generally been given over to die. It is known that the bacilli, or germ of the disease, first finds lodgement in those engines of the human system, the Lungs, through the impurities of the blood. These bacilli, or germs, soon develop into living microbes, which in turn feed upon the life-giving elements of the system.

Whatever remedy, then, that tends to destroy this microbe in its incipiency, before it has had power to fasten upon the system, inevitably tends to eradicate the disease.

THE REMEDY HAS BEEN DISCOVERED.

In a plain, simple compound, from a formula discovered by a skilled physician, in the course of an extensive practice, extending over a long series of years, and is given to the public under the name of the

Microbe Destroyer!

Recent discoveries, by eminent foreign as well as local practitioners, have demonstrated beyond doubt or cavil that the bacilli or microbe germ is present, not only in all forms of pulmonary diseases, but in fevers, and cases arising from impurity of the blood, as well. Especially has this been proven in cases of Yellow Fever, Dengue Fever, and all forms of fever arising, directly or indirectly, from malaria. Hence it is that the

MICROBE DESTROYER

Is offered with perfect confidence as a panacea for all diseases of a pulmonary nature, such as

CONSUMPTION,
ASTHMA,
BRONCHITIS
AND CATARRH;

And for such ailments as arise from impurities of the blood, including Rheumatism, Loss of Appetite, Insomnia, Chills and Fever, and all FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

THIS IS NO QUACK NOSTRUM.

It is a simple remedy, that performs its work silently and surely, bringing relief to the afflicted, health and vigor to the sick and debilitated, joy and happiness to the despondent

It is Unfailing in its Results.

TESTIMONIALS.

KYLE, HAYS CO., TEXAS, Jan. 11, 1888.

This is to certify that I contracted a disease that physicians called secondary syphilis in Mexico, in 1883, and was treated by several physicians in Mexico, and four of the most prominent medical men in Texas, Drs. Pain, of Galveston, Herff, of San Antonio, and I called on Dr. Reagan, of Kyle, and he sent me to Dr. Wooten, of Austin, and he gave me a prescription which greatly improved my disease. I returned to Mexico without any medicine and soon was as bad off as ever, when I saw Dr. Reagan and he advised me to try the Microbe Destroyer, and I gave him the money and he ordered two gallons and I commenced at once to take it, and before I had got through taking it I was well and had no syphilitic ulcers since I took the first gallon, which is three and a half months.

Witness: HULIAN JOSEMARIE.
D. M. REAGAN, M. D.

A Card to the Public from the Wife of Dr. Wilkes, of Houston.

Last year, about September, 1887, my baby girl was fast sinking with 'summer diarrhœa,' which the doctors said was due to an intestinal ferment of germ growth, though they could not check the disease. The little body was a skeleton of cadaveric hue. As all mothers, I tried doctors, and everything. At last I caught the idea of your wonderful "Microbe Destroyer," and hope said, "Try it," and I am thankful I did, for her little sick stomach was quieted, the remedy was retained, the ferment ceased and my baby was rescued. In all such cases it has my utmost confidence. I myself have had a pulmonary trouble and am using it, and my trial of it so far has been most satisfactory. My appetite is improving and my weight is increasing every day.

Respectfully,
MRS. ALICE WILKES,
19 Polk st., Houston, Texas.

To Dr. J. J. Tobin.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, January 31, 1888.

DR. J. J. TOBIN, Agent Capital Microbe Destroyer:

DEAR SIR.—About three years ago I was attacked with erysipelas in my ankle and foot, and notwithstanding I sought and secured the best medical attention, the germs of the disease still remained in my system.

About one year later I was also attacked with rheumatism in my left shoulder, and despite the use of every remedy known, I suffered intense pains, at times being almost totally deprived of the use of my arm.

About two months ago, I was induced by a friend to give your Mibrobe Destroyer a trial. I did so, I confess, without the slightest hope or belief that it would benefit me. But I was most joyfully disappointed, and it is to acknowledge the blessing it has conferred upon me that I now write you. I began to experience relief after the first day's use of the compound, and have steadily improved since, until now there is not a trace remaining of either the erysipelas or rheumatism, and I feel as completely restored to health as I ever was in my life.

SCOTT PORTER,

AUSTIN, TEX., January 31, 1888.

Dr. J. J. Tobin, Agent Capital Microbe Destroyer Company:

DEAR SIR: About eighteen months ago my little 12-year-old daughter, LaRay, became afflicted with tonsilitis. At times she suffered intensely, and we despaired of her life. Her worst and most violent attack occurred about ten days ago, which it seemed a most impossible one for her to survive. Medical skill afforded her only temporary relief, and each succeeding attack appeared to be more severe and dangerous than the preceding one.

Induced by the happy results of your Microbe Destroyer upon my husband, I concluded to give it a trial. I began by giving her a wineglassful of the compound three times a day, and prepared a gargle which she took in the usual way. The effect was instantaneous. Heavy discharge of clotted mucous followed each time the gargle was resorted to, and a steady improvement was noticeable in her condition from the beginning. She is now going to school regularly and is in no way seriously affected by any bad results, arising from the disease. I feel that her cure is effective and permanent, and write this for the benefit of those who may be sufferers from the same cause, that they may know they can find a safe, certain and positive cure in your invaluable Microbe Destroyer. MRS. KITTIE PORTER,
No. 300 East Thirteenth street.

KYLE, Hays Co. Texas, Jan. 11, 1888.

This is to certify that I have been afflicted with ulceration of uterus for the last ten years, and had nasal catarrh the same length of time, and was treated for ulcer by Dr. Reagan, my husband, and Dr. W. J. Mathews, and had the counsel of Prof. Granville Dowell and Drs. Sweatingen, Bibb and Carothers, and was treated for catarrh for two years by Dr. Mathis, and never found any cure till I took the Microbe Destroyer, and it has entirely cured me.

STOCK EXCHANGE REVIEW.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The stock market was more active to-day than any day for months, and decidedly strong almost from the opening to the close. The last prices and best for the day, being in many cases identical. The market advanced readily on more encouraging reports from Washington as to the financial legislation now pending, and especially the news from Chicago of the raising of the boycott on "Q" freight, which was regarded as a practical settlement of the strike in that region.

Government bonds were quiet but firm.

Petroleum was active, although fluctuations were not so wide as on previous days of the week. It opened steady at 79⅛c., and after the first sales declined to 76⅝c. The Standard Oil brokers then caused a sharp advance to 79⅛c., after which it sagged off, and closed weak at 78⅛c. Consolidated Exchange sales, 2,122,000 barrels; opening, 79⅛c.; highest, 79⅛c.; lowest, 76⅝c.; closing, 78⅛c. The Leading Journal

—OF—

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Established Fifteen Years Ago.

Published Under One Management and Policy Continuously Ever Since.

THE LOS ANGELES HERALD IS BY ALL ACknowledged to have been the prime factor in the discovery and making known of the resources of this section. To its sagacious outgivings more than to any other agency our marvelous development is attributed.

THE HERALD has from its inception watched with a single eye the budding industries of this portion of the State. For each good enterprise this journal has at all times had a word of cheerful encouragement. In spite of the skeptical, it has survived to see all of its earlier predictions fulfilled to the letter.

THE HERALD to-day takes the lead in all respects among the papers of Southern California. Its first care still is the material, intellectual and social interests of its section. It aims to be truthful rather than over-zealous in its publication of news; to be conservative, rather than over-sensational, in its policy; to be clean and decent, respecting the sacred precincts of the home and fireside, rather than indecently salacious in its tone.

THE HERALD gets all the news from all quarters of the globe with promptness, accuracy and dispatch. Its local staff is energetic and well-trained to miss nothing of real importance to its readers. It is always alive to all public enterprises.

THE HERALD still takes pride in aiding any legitimate material, intellectual or social movement which will benefit the people. No other journal in this section approaches it in these important respects.

THE ADAMS SPRINGS

—AND—

Price Ranch Property.

In GLENBROOK, Lake Co., Cal.

This celebrated property comprises about 360 acres of land, varied in its topography, containing scenery rivaling Switzerland, and appreciated only by those who have sojourned in its loveliness. On the premises are the celebrated Adams Springs, a hotel containing 30 rooms, besides parlor, four cottages, lodging house of ten rooms, eight cabins for campers, large barn that will accommodate 21 horses; office and dining room opposite the hotel. There are two acres in apple, pear and plum trees, one acre in choice table grapes, about one hundred acres of fine valley land fenced and cross-fenced, and a large acreage of fine pasture land. The Adams Springs are renowned for the virtue of their waters, the analysis of which we have at our office. The elevation of the spring and hotel is about 3,300 feet above the level of the ocean; the scenery romantic beyond description; located on an elegant road, 30 miles from Calistoga and 18 miles from Lakeport in the town of Glenbrook, Lake county. This is an elegant opportunity for the lover of the beautiful and romantic; the party intent on business, as with proper attention this place can be made one of the most popular resorts in the State; the speculator, as a very great enhancement in values must from natural causes occur. A railroad will no doubt be constructed (being now agitated) within a brief period of time to run near this property.

CATARRH!

THROAT DISEASES, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA,

CONSUMPTION

Together with diseases of the EYE, EAR and HEART, successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M. D., M. C. P. S. O.,

Hollenbeck Block, cor. Spring and Second.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. WILLIAMS.

With his new system of medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold. Indeed, he declares he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another; and he is always exceedingly careful; it is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appear, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is sometimes felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat: there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work, Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by and-by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

By the employment of proper inhalation in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray), we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharynx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless, unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best reference from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so, can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address
